What happens when you visit GIMME SHELTER GLOBAL's website?

Every time you connect to the internet or, if you use an always-on connection such as broadband or ADSL, you are automatically assigned a unique identifying number known as an Internet Protocol Address (“IP Address”). This IP Address, which contains information regarding the location of your computer on the internet, your country of origin and the name of your internet service provider (ISP), is automatically logged by GIMME SHELTER GLOBAL’s website.

When you visit a website, your web browser automatically downloads a copy of the web pages and pictures that you view to your hard disk. Certain pages of this website may also require that your browser downloads, together with the copy of the web page and pictures, a small text file called a “Cookie”.

We collect information from you when you fill out a form or where you are asked to provide details

If you subscribe to one of GIMME SHELTER GLOBAL’s newsletters or if you opt to fill in a form you will be asked to supply your email address and certain personal information such as your full name and surname, company, postal address, town, post code, country, telephone number and fax number. We store this information on GIMME SHELTER GLOBAL’s database in order to provide you with the requested service.

Why do we log your IP address?

What is an IP address?

When you first started your internet session (i.e. your computer connected to the internet) your computer was automatically assigned a unique: an IP Address. This is your computer’s unique address on the internet. Without that

IP Address, websites would not be able to deliver their content to you as they would not be able to find your computer on the internet.

Because each time you disconnect and reconnect to the internet a new IP Address is automatically assigned to your computer, IP Addresses are not suitable for us to identifying you as an individual.

How do we collect your IP Address?

Each time you visit a page within this website your computer sends out a message to GIMME SHELTER GLOBAL's website asking for the content. This message sent by your computer also encloses your IP Address as a form of "return address" so that GIMME SHELTER GLOBAL's website may find your computer on the internet in order to send it the requested content. GIMME SHELTER GLOBAL's web-server automatically logs all these messages.

What do we do with your IP Address?

When we log your IP Address, the data collected is grouped up with the other logged IP addresses in order to provide us with statistics on visitors to the site, such as the geographic location of visitors, how long they stay on GIMME SHELTER GLOBAL's site, which are the most viewed pages and other matters.

Collecting this information allows us to administer GIMME SHELTER GLOBAL's site, diagnose potential server problems, analyse visitor trends and statistics, and generally helps us provide you with a better experience.

What are Cookies?

"Cookies" are small text files that are sent by websites so that the website can remember who you are. Without cookies, websites and their servers have no memory. A cookie, like a key, enables the website to remember users that have
